I can assume there are a few, but 1 in 4 is huge number. I can just request those to wash hands for others' sake or please don't shake hands.

Well that's surprising, but then it does come from one's upbringing. My parents made us wash our hands after using the bathroom and before meals, to name a few. I always wonder when I shake someone's hand if they wash their hands after using the bathroom. I guess it was just drummed into me as a child.
